

ICHOUME

一丁目

"It is said that Japanese cuisine reaches an apogee when nothing more can be removed from a dish. In essence, it is a culinary art founded on a reduction to the essence of an ingredient. At Ichoume our interpretation is contemporary and less formal, yet the ethos remains instilled in our approach. The wines chosen are designed to sit effortlessly with our food: to find confluence with umami and subtleties, rather than embellishing, or overwhelming textures and flavours with shrill acidity, excessive alcohol or obtuse oak. The hallmarks are freshness, juiciness and restraint, with few exceptions."

Ned Goodwin
